But it seems that beneath the fair exterior he presented to this people there lurked a very different spirit, for since the removal of his headquarters from this city he has shown himself the willing, pliant tool of the persecutors of as brave and noble a people as ever lived. This spirit was so tally developed when he was sent here something over a year ago to see that nicipal officers, as to sweep away the last vestige of doubt as to his disposition and pliable character in the hands of the Radicals. He refused in point blank terms to allow a fair election to be held, and when the party at whose request he was sent here for that purpose desired to test the legality of the so-called election, he permitted an armed mob, called State guards, in defiance of law, to oust the old officers and install those chosen at the "election" held under his dictation. He could not plead ignorance as a justification for permitting this outrage, for some of the ablest lawyers in Tennessee explained to him the law governing the case so plainly that he could no err except witfally. He knew the claimants had their remedy in the civil law, if they could establish their claim as just. It was under such circumstances that he permitted an armed mob to invade the Mayor's office and eject that officer at the point of the bayonet. Here was a most notable example of respect the people of Tennessee.

We may be mistaken, but our impression is that with law in whatever effort should be it is gammon. The State made advances made to bring a change in this State, yet | to these roads and was empowered to it suits the purpose of Gen. Thomas to appoint receivers, and in certain contingencies to sell the roads. At the last regular session of the Legislature the State entered into a new agreement with most of them, and in the Omnibus Bill made lavish apopropriations to some of these and other railroads, but agreed that none of the roads should be sold unless they for "two consecutive" years failed to pay the State interest. If a road for two consecutive years after the making of the new agreement failed, then it might be sold. None of them have since that time failed for two elevation to the office he now holds. Its | consecutive years, and they can't purpose cannot be mistaken by any fair yet be legally sold. It is very questionable whether they can be sold at all legally. If there is any doubt about it, the State is not likely to make see, and to the scorn and contempt of much by the sale. It is hard to say such men the disfranchised in this State | whether there has been most reguery or dunder-headism in the Legislature about railroads in Tennessee. The Edgefield read owed the State $1,232,804, or $117,804 more than the whole cost of its construction, and it never paid a dollar into the State Treasury toward the interest on its loan, but the Legislature and everybody knows what it means) two made an arrangement to give it $300,000 million four hundred and ninety-five to help it build a road in Kentucky, at thousand dollars to certain railroads in the same time stipulating that it should not be sold unless it failed to pay its inreport to Gen. Grant regarding af- merits or demerits of these various roads terest for two consecutive years. The Clarksville road owed the State $1,468,-250 and has been made one of the main arteries of travel in the State, but for synopsis furnished the Cincinnati Ga- improvements. But, we oppose all some reason did not get an appropriation be liable to be sold. There may be an arrangement by which under such sale the Nashville and Louisville Railroad Company may buy it at a great bargain. Quien sabe? The Northwestern road owing the State $3,265,000 never had been able to make even running expenses, but $550,000 more was loaned to it, and a stipulation made that it should not be sold unless it failed to pay its interest of two conecutive years. It can't be sold now, and if it could, would only be bought by the Nashville and Chattanooga or Western and Atlantic roads at a great bargain. The Winchester road owed the State $1, 65,500 and never made expenses. It ot $300,000 more last session of the egislature under the stipulation that it hould not be sold unless it failed to pay nterest for two consecutive years. I can't be sold. The McMinnville road got rom the State $1,240,000 or $175,000 more than the cost of building it. It never has paid running expenses, but as t did not ask more State aid under the emnibus bill it may be liable to sale. Our Governor desires to save the state from loss, but it is very tionable if the roads can be legally sold. It may be a question sheaher the State should sell them he could do so. Have the roads had fair chance? Have they been properly managed? Will their sale aid in the development of the country? We have no doubt that the suggestions in the Governor's message that the railroads that have failed to pay the interest on their bonds shall be sold, springs from the most praiseworthy intent, and from a belief that the powers secured by the State under its prior loans is still intact but an examination of the matter may reveal that there is a doubt in relation to some of the roads. If the State has the power to soil, and the roads have not performed their part of the contract, they will have no right to complain whatever may be done.

THE Press and Times says: "We regard the success of this great national principle of One Nation, One Citizenship, One Suffrage, as certain to be secured during the coming winter by a two-thirds majority in Congress." Why then does not the Press and Times urge the Tennessee Legislature to take steps for the inauguration of universal suffrage in this State?
